College of Agricultural and Environmental Sciences
Animal and Dairy Science Department

FACULTY POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT Public Service Assistant – Dairy Extension/Teaching

POSITION DESCRIPTION: The appointment will be a fiscal year, non-tenure, public service track faculty position in the Animal and Dairy Science Department (ADS), College of Agriculture and Environmental Sciences, The University of Georgia, Athens, Georgia.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITIES: The appointment will be 75% extension/25% teaching. The successful candidate will be expected to collaborate with other ADS dairy faculty in providing youth and adult education programs. The position is expected to establish and maintain linkages with the dairy industry through the development and implementation of dairy youth and adult extension programs. Dairy youth programs include, but are not limited to, dairy youth quiz bowls, dairy judging contests, dairy shows, dairy youth retreats and conferences, and other dairy youth activities. Together with the other ADS dairy extension faculty, the position will be expected to provide scholarly adult education programs in their area(s) of expertise. Teaching will involve primary responsibility for teaching courses in the dairy cattle area, depending on the successful candidate's background and area of training. Possible courses could include, but are not limited to, dairy cattle evaluation, dairy techniques, dairy cattle management, and/or dairy business/enterprise analysis. The person in the position will also be expected to mentor/advise undergraduates, assist in Departmental recruiting activities, and serve as an advisor to student club(s).

QUALIFICATIONS: The successful candidate must have a minimum of a Master's Degree in Dairy Science, Animal Science or a related field at the time of appointment. An earned degree field in one or more of the following areas is desirable: nutrition, physiology, genetics, reproduction, mastitis control and/or production/management in dairy cattle. The successful candidate must have ability and interest in teaching people in all stages of development in topics pertaining to dairy production and management and handling dairy cattle. The ability to communicate effectively in verbal and written form is required. The position requires extensive contact with Georgia Dairy Industry clientele, youth and undergraduate students; therefore, the candidate must be able to effectively teach and interact with people in widely varying circumstances.

POSITION AVAILABLE: July 1, 2017. Application deadline is May 1, 2017.

SALARY: Salary commensurate with training and experience.

APPLICATION PROCEDURE: Applicant must submit a cover letter, copy of transcripts, and CV on-line at <http://facultyjobs.uga.edu/postings/1941>. In addition, applicants should request three letters of reference from individuals who can provide a critical evaluation of the candidate's extension, teaching, and other scholarly activities sent to:
